Description

CID is a school where children who are deaf and hard of hearing learn to listen, talk, and read without using sign language. We prepare children to participate and succeed in their local schools. With 100 years' experience putting children who are deaf and hard of hearing on the path toward independent and productive lives, CID is an excellent place to explore your child's potential. We offer generous scholarship support for families of children with hearing loss, from birth to age 12.

Description

The Moog Center for Deaf Education is an independent, not-for-profit school that provides educational services to children with hearing loss, birth through the early elementary years and their families. Our goal at the Moog Center is to make it possible for more children with hearing loss to talk and experience success in their lives both in school and in the world at large. The focus of the curriculum is on the development of spoken language skills and includes a complete preschool program for children 3-5 and all academics for school age children. The Moog Center also provides audiology services, mainstream services, professional education, outreach programs and teleschool services. The Moog Center is considered a model program for other oral schools, and the Moog Center staff serve as consultants to numerous schools across the United States.

Description

As international leaders in listening and spoken language, teacher training, school district collaborations and hearing aid and cochlear implant technology, St. Joseph Institute (SJI) partners with families and schools to develop strategies to best meet the unique needs of each child. With two urban campuses (St. Louis and Indianapolis) and innovative ihear Internet Therapy, SJI is helping children discover their voice.

SJI's early intervention programs provide a continuum of care working with infants and young children as well as their families. Our supportive staff helps you navigate through your questions and challenges and guides you in your role as your child's first and most important teacher of language. Focused on the specific needs of your child and family, individual sessions are available in your home, other appropriate setting or over the Internet. We help you navigate the waters of advocating for your child and learning about their hearing aids or implants. The comprehensive program also includes family support services, peer play groups and cochlear implant rehabilitation.

St. Joseph Institute operates a state-of-the-art audiology clinic located on the St. Louis campus. The clinic provides a full range of audiologic testing and services. St. Joseph Institute audiologists are licensed by the State of Missouri and Illinois and certified by the American Speech-Language and Hearing Association (ASHA).
